The deadline for all application materials to be received by the Counseling Admissions department is March 1 for the Fall Semester enrollment and October 1 for Spring Semester enrollment. The review process will be initiated only for those applications that are complete by the above deadlines. It is each applicant's responsibility to ensure that his or her application is complete.

The Program Admissions Committee will review all complete applications after the deadline date. The Committee will recommend to the Dean of the Graduate School whether you should be admitted or not. The Graduate School makes the final decision about admission. The admissions process is quite competitive and not all qualified applicants can be admitted. You will be notified approximately one month after the application deadline. Throughout the application process, you will be notified, via e-mail exclusively, of the receipt of materials.

Admission to the Master's degree programs in counseling is competitive. Counseling faculty members recognize that potential counseling effectiveness cannot be assessed in the same manner as academic performance in typical college classes. Students striving to become effective counselors need to be aware of how their values affect their behavior. Potential counselors must be able to communicate effectively, be open-minded, tolerate ambiguity, exhibit a high degree of patience, demonstrate emotional stability and self-acceptance and have other skills and capabilities associated with counselor effectiveness.
